

THE QUARRY

Christine Zielinski

Breathe

Breathe the earth

moss soft on bark

radiant.

Breathe the water

running fast

over rock
smoothed to sand.
The tang of salt
lingering
on your tongue,
on your skin,
as it bakes brown
beside the waves.